

2nd International Summer School of Sedimentology 2007

“Carbonate Sedimentation, Rift Tectonics and Petroleum Potential on Continental Margins”

held in Terni & Cantiano, Italy

23-30 September 2007

Selected Photographs

Photo 1. IAS Summer School group photograph in front of La Rocca Hotel, Terni (Photo: K. Tomassetti).

Photo 2. Profs. Helmut Weissert and Judith McKenzie preparing IAS Summer School lecture (Photo: C. Ricci).

Photo 3. Professor Santantonio gathers the students in the field (Photo: C. Ricci).

Photo 4. First day in the field – very hot, indeed (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 5. Sabina Plateau with the "Maiolica Formation" (Photo: J. Chablais).

Photo 6: Lunch break (Photo: C. Ricci).

Photo 7: Lunch break for the drivers (Profs. Nino Mariotti and Umberto Nicosia) field (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 8: Would you believe, another student presentation? (Photo: C. Ricci).

Photo 9: And, the next day, the students again gather in the field (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 10: Professor Santantonio leads the way (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo11: into the fog and rain! (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 12: In Cantiano – second part of the IAS Summer School (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 13: On Mt. Cucco - again fog and wind! (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 14: Waiting in the shelter... (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 15: and two hours later - Ben, James, Peter and Jerome: "Is it Calcare Massiccio-A or -B?" (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 16: IAS Summer School group photograph in front of the Bottacione section (Photo: I. Millán Sánchez).

Photo 17: Yes, this is the official K/T boundary section!! (Photo: C. Ricci).

Photo 18: The designated Bottaccione K/T boundary (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 19: Close-up of the Bottaccione K/T boundary plaque (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 20: The Bottaccione "Swiss cheese" made by "palaeomagnetic worms" (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 21: This is how we prepare polenta at Cantiano Village (Photo: J. Chablais).

Photo 22: The farewell "Polenta" party at Cantiano Village (Photo: J. Chablais).

Photo 23: Last day in Rome - Odette and Mara at Forum Romanum. (Photo: U. Barudzija).

Photo 24. IAS Summer School friends forever. See you in Bochum! (Photo: U. Barudzija).